Directed Retreat Week

*All Are Welcome to our Third Annual Directed Retreat Week

Sunday, February 3–Saturday, February 9, 2008

St. Ignatius Retreat House offers the opportunity for the experience of the Directed Retreat to the people of a parish, in their parish surroundings... as they live out their daily lives.

“My experience during the “retreat” was the feeling of renewal. It was a time of reflection and examination of my experiences of faith during my faith life. My spiritual director was wonderful to speak to each day. I found the retreat has enriched my faith journey.” -L

Who can go?

This “Directed Retreat” is for you! Many people cannot go away for a week or a weekend to experience a directed retreat. This is a wonderful taste of what it is like to have spiritual direction and to be on retreat without leaving your home.

“Being part of the “retreat” was a gift I gave to Me - of special prayer time and personal reflection. I found this time to be nourishing, comforting and spiritually invigorating, bringing me to a deeper level of understanding of my faith, family and community.” -D

How does it work?

We will meet initially on Sunday afternoon at 2 PM at Our Lady of Lourdes. Our first meeting will last about one hour and you will meet your retreat director/prayer guide. The Prayer Guides are a group of spiritual directors, affiliated with St. Ignatius Retreat Center, Manhasset who have been trained in leading prayers and spiritual exercises in the tradition of St. Ignatius.

After this meeting, each retreatant will meet privately with his/her prayer guide at our parish for approximately one-half hour each day, Monday through Friday. During these meetings, the retreatant and prayer guide will reflect together and will examine different ways to pray, including meditation and praying with scripture. Each retreatant commits to set aside a half hour each day for a prayer period on a scripture passage. On Saturday morning at 9:30 AM, there will be a group closing session at Our Lady of Lourdes.

Brochures containing applications are available at the Religious Education or Parish Office. Registration deadline is Monday, January 28. For more information, call the Religious Education Office at 661-5440 or email Religioused@ollchurch.org.

The 6 PM Mass is our Sunday night Mass at Our Lady of Lourdes. Our Six Committee and Contemporary Music Group work hard to make this an interactive, exciting and meaningful for our young people, their families and people of all ages.

This month, each week, we are praying with our parish’s 8th graders who are preparing for the Sacrament of Confirmation and next month plans are already in the works for Lent 2008!

Also, our Music Group is looking for middle school, high school and young adults who would love to sing at The Six. Practices take place before the Mass. If you’re interested contact Carol Goetz at 661.3224, x. 135 or e-mail to music@ollchurch.org

Ash Wednesday

Wednesday, February 6

Invite your friends and loved ones to come back to Church this Lent beginning on this day. Come before work, after work, during work, during the day, at night, whenever!
There's a time and place for everyone at OLL!

- Prayer Services on the hour as we pray together as a parish family:
7 AM, 9 AM, 10 AM, 11 AM, 12 Noon, 1 PM, 2 PM, 3 PM, 4 PM, 5 PM, 6 PM, 7 PM and 9 PM.
- Mass will be celebrated at 8 AM and 8 PM.
- On Ash Wednesday, we invite all in our parish family to fast and pray for ourselves and for one another. Lent is such a powerful time for us to celebrate God's healing love for us – we can do that in prayer.
  - Our Church will be open all day for you to come and pray privately.
  - The Scripture readings for the day speak to us of the challenges and benefits of this season....Joel 2:12-18
2 Corinthians 5:20 – 6:2
Matthew 6: 1-6, 16-18
  - We are challenged to fast, limiting food to one full meal with minimal food at the other two meal times and abstain from meat. (This is required of all adults from ages 18-59 and only of those whose health would not be at risk by doing so.) We fast and abstain - not as punishment - but to focus our prayer, unite with the less fortunate, and reflect on the ways God's love can change our hearts.

Second Sunday in Ordinary Time

Have you ever said hello to someone you thought you recognized, only realizing too late that this was a complete stranger? Or, as in the case of my daughter, sat down next to a familiar face on a train, reminiscing and trying to make small talk, only to find out that the person only looked like your best friend's boyfriend? All too often, we feel we know someone, when in reality they are perfect strangers.

John the Baptist's excitement in today's Gospel reading from John can hardly be contained. "Behold!" he shouts excitedly to all who would hear. "The Lamb of God!" he exclaims. John also says, "I did not know him?" This is not to be taken literally; of course John knew Jesus, but until the Holy Spirit descended on Jesus, John did not truly know him as the long-awaited Savior, the paschal lamb who would shed his own blood for our sins.

We know of Jesus, but how do we "know Jesus?" Through our baptism we are made one with Jesus, but to really know him we must go down to the water with him, fully immerse ourselves in the cleansing waters of new life and be reborn with the Holy Spirit (CCC 537). Walk with Jesus; talk with him. Fulfill the righteousness he spoke of, and never be afraid to speak of his unending love for each and every one of us.

Suffering Without Health Insurance

They came to the St. Ignatius Parish Outreach Center in Hicksville because they were desperate. Hispanic parents, both legal immigrants, both working, she as a house cleaner, he as a landscaper, their children would qualify for Medicaid except for the fact that their working parents earn too much money for them to be eligible. The family has no health insurance.

Since their six-year old son was running a high fever due to the flu, the parents took him to the emergency room of the Nassau University Medical Center. Hospital emergency rooms are required to treat patients without health insurance or any other way to pay their medical bills. ERs are among the most expensive forms of health care, and often the treatment of last resort for the uninsured. The ER staff did treat the boy, and prescribed an antibiotic to fight the infection.

But, emergency rooms do not pay for prescriptions. And so, unable to afford the prescription, the family sought help at St. Ignatius, which they received in two forms. One was cash to pay for the prescription. The other was an application for Child Health Plus, a government health insurance program for the children of uninsured parents.

Many Long Islanders who do not have health insurance work for small businesses that either choose not to provide or cannot afford to provide health insurance to their employees. The stories behind the numbers are chilling.

The Language of Silence

by Ron Rolheiser, OMI

“Nothing resembles the language of God so much as does silence.”

Meister Eckhard wrote those words. What do they mean? Among other things, they speak of a deep mystery.

What language will we speak in heaven? We don't know, but we have some inkling of it in the deep experiences of intimacy we have on earth. In our deepest experiences of intimacy and communion, we come together beyond words, in a silence that isn't empty but is too full for words. In heaven, I suspect, just as in our deepest experiences of intimacy here, there won't be a need for words. We will know and be known in a language beyond ordinary words, in the language of intimacy and the language of God.

We already experience this somewhat. Sometimes, for instance, we understand someone or feel understood by someone intuitively, beyond words, beyond anything we've ever spoken to each other, and often this understanding is deeper than the understanding we come to through normal conversation.

The same is true for intimacy within community. I remember doing a 30-day Ignatian retreat some years ago. About sixty of us were on the retreat and we arrived there as total strangers. The thirty days were spent in silence, except for celebrating Eucharist together each day in the chapel. We ate our meals in silence, never recreated with each other, and never, except for two very brief occasions early on in the retreat, had any conversations with each other at all. Yet, when the retreat ended we had the feeling that we knew each other more deeply than we would have had we socialized and talked during those days. The silence was a powerful language, stronger than words, and it brought us into community in a way that words often cannot.

I've experienced this too inside of religious community. I am a member of a missionary order, the Oblates of Mary Immaculate, and one of the things our founder, St. Eugene de Mazenod, mandated for us was that, each day, we should sit together as a community in chapel for a long period of silence. My experience has been that whenever we do this, something akin to a "Quaker silence", the silent time spent together does more to bind us into community than do any number of community meetings. Silence is a special language.

But that doesn't put silence in opposition to words. Silence and words need each other. Words take on greater power when they issue forth from silence, just as they begin to lose their force when they are constant and never-ending. Conversely silence is more powerful after we have already come to know each other through words. There are things that we can only know through silence, just as there are things we can only know through conversations inside of a community.

That is why solitude is such paradox: Solitude, as we know, is not defined as being alone, but as being at peace, as being restful rather than restless. And we all know the strange anomalies that can happen here: Sometimes we are at a celebration with others, but we are too restless to enjoy the occasion or even to be present to it. Socializing with others paradoxically serves to heighten our restlessness and disquiet. Conversely, sometimes we are alone, away from others, but are restful, comfortable, and at peace inside of our own lives. Being alone paradoxically works to still our disquiet and silence is what brings us into community.

And so it is important that we try to learn the language of silence, just as we also try to learn the words that can help us know each other. There is a huge silence undergirding us and inside of us that is trying to draw us into itself. To enter that silence is to enter the reality of God and the reality of our real communion with each other. For this reason, all great religious traditions and all great spiritual writers emphasize the need for silence at times in our lives.

Sadly, we are too often afraid of silence, afraid of being alone, afraid of what we might meet there. Too often silence speaks to us of loneliness, of missing out on life, of being disconnected, of a being a tomb of non-life. And so we cling to each other and look for conversations, amusements, and distractions that can fill in the silent spaces in our lives. Ultimately this running away from silence is founded unconsciously on the fear that, deep down, something is missing, both inside of the world and inside ourselves and we are best to cling to whatever can protect us from that painful truth.

But that fear is unfounded. As Thomas Merton put it, there is a hidden wholeness at the heart of things and that hidden wholeness can only be discovered if we get to the deepest level of things. And the language we need to get there is the language of silence - the language of God and the language of intimacy.

Sharing the Gospel

John the Baptist told everyone that Jesus was the Son of God. He told them the Holy Spirit came down on Jesus and remained on him as the Scriptures said. Jesus taught his disciples and others. He healed people to show his power as the Son of God. God wants you to be his disciple. He wants you to be a good example of a loving child of God.
